

LBJ Names CIA-Funding Panel

Associated Press

President Johnson yesterday named the 18 members of a special committee, headed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, to review recommendations of a Government panel that looked into financing of school and other groups by the Central Intelligence Agency.

The panel was headed by Under Secretary of State Nicholas de B. Katzenbach. It proposed that some sort of mechanism be set up to provide openly Federal funds for overseas operations of private organizations deserving public support.

The 18 members of the Rusk committee were drawn from the executive and legislative branches of Government and private life. They are:

Attorney General Ramsey Clark; Budget Director Charles Schultz; Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.), Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee; Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), Chairman of the Armed Services Committee; Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.), Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee; Sen. Milton E. Young (R-N.D.), member of the Appropriations and Agriculture Committee. Rep. George Mahon (D-Tex.), Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee; Rep. J. Mendel Rivers (D-S.C.), Chairman of the Armed Services Committee; Rep. Thomas Morgan (D-Pa.), Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee; Rep. Frank Row (R-Ohio), member of the Appropriations Committee.

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore; Thomas S. Gates Jr., president, Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York (former Secretary of Defense); Dr. James H. McCrocklin, president, Southwest Texas State College, San Marcos, Tex.; Paul R. Porter, Washington attorney; Frank A. Rose, president, University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa; Henry S. Rowen, president, Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, Calif.; Robert M. Travis, president-elect of the student body, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill; and Dr. Herman B. Wells, chairman of the board, Education and World Affairs, and chancellor of Indiana University, Bloomington.
